

SOHAM TOWN FORUM

Statement of Ethos

This statement of ethos is intended to clarify the arrangements which will apply to all members, partnerships and agreements developed through the activities of the Forum.

The Soham Town Forum supports, promotes and implements, where possible, the views, problems and needs of our community.

The Forum does not have a responsibility for, or influence over, local policies, government or any individuals, either written or verbal.

Any work undertaken with commercial companies will be purely for the purposes of using wider expertise to undertake visioning, problem solving and networking to maximise the effectiveness and impact of the Forum's activities and work.

Every committee member, organisation or individual must declare any interest in any of our discussions or activities before we begin.

The Forum is not liable for any comments made before, during or after any of its meetings or activities.

Any person or persons involved with the Forum's activities must follow our existing ethos. All independent bodies and persons working with the Forum are expected to adhere to their own professional or organisational codes of conduct.

Any organisation, representative or individual is welcome to:

Attend any meeting(s)

Discuss any topic of concern or local interest

Ask for help, advice or guidance

Present – either verbally, written or visual

(for visual presentations please give a months notice if you wish to do so as arrangements will have to be made for correct equipment etc)

All persons wishing to be part of or 'feed' into the Forum must be made aware of this statement of ethos.
